Against the impressive backdrop of a workshop, a large-bore marine diesel engine was first of all driven in, behind which the new FCA team bus subsequently emerged.

This event was also an exceptional experience for selected MAN Diesel & Turbo employees.

"We have lots of FCA fans among our staff and are therefore very pleased that MAN is now an official FC Augsburg partner," says Wilfried von Rath, Chief Human Resources Officer at MAN Diesel & Turbo SE.

During the presentation, the official bus name was also revealed - "Puppenkiste" (Puppet Theater), this having been selected in advance by the fans. The suggestion came from Frank Carnold in Gessertshausen.

"This event shows the close connection between MAN, the FCA and the City of Augsburg. An emotional partnership that is profitable for all those involved," said Stefan Reuter, Sports Director at FC Augsburg.

"With this new team bus, we are now optimally equipped for our exciting trips across Europe," added FCA's top trainer Markus Weinzierl, during the bus presentation.

The new MAN Lion's Coach L team bus does not quite manage the 11,000 hp generated by the large-bore diesel engine, but with its 480 hp, it is still well equipped for the long drives across Europe. Inside the bus, a reduced number of seats, electrically-adjustable seats and leg rests and an LED starry sky ensure a comfortable ride. A pine cone, handcrafted by MAN
